The Center for Catholic Studies played a major role in the construction of the SHU Core Curriculum, beginning with the 2001 Summer Seminar, "Reflections on the Core Curriculum" facilitated by Michael Stebbins from Gonzaga University. It also arranged the following specific faculty seminars on the core:

- Summer Seminar on the Signature Courses, June, 2005, 45 Faculty
- Signature Three Course Faculty Seminar, June 27-28, 2007 – the faculty essays related to this course can be found at:

Through the years the Center for Catholic Studies has also sponsored on-going faculty colloquia on "Science and Religion;" "Religion and the Social Sciences" and "Technology and Humanism" (in conjunction with DeVry University, with a grant from the Templeton Foundation). Ongoing faculty development programs have been co-sponsored with the Center for Vocation and Servant Leadership and with the support of the Toth/Lonergan Endowed Chair in Interdisciplinary Studies.
